Five transported to hospitals Monday afternoon following wreck in Curtis Community

A two-vehicle wreck Monday, July 29, at the U.S. Highway 84 and Alabama Highway 141 intersection in the Curtis Community of Coffee County sent five people to area hospitals.

The accident occurred around 1 p.m. Monday afternoon involving two small SUV's. Officials on scene said it appeared one had attempted to cross the intersection pulling out in front of oncoming traffic on Hwy. 84 thus causing the collision with the second vehicle.

Two people were airlifted from the scene by Enterprise Rescue medical helicopters while three others were transported by Enterprise Rescue ambulances.

A portion of the east-bound lanes of Hwy. 84 were closed as emergency responders worked the scene. Also, a landing zone for the two helicopters was created on the roadway. This allowed the emergency medical responders to transport directly from the scene to the hospital.

Enterprise Rescue operations manager Arnold Woodham said the two patients airlifted from the scene were considered to be in critical condition at the time. He added that the injured persons were not locals.

The accident was investigated by Alabama State Troopers. Assisting on scene with traffic control were Elba Police officers and Coffee County Sheriff's deputies. Also, the Elba Volunteer Fire Department was dispatched to assist on scene.

The scene was cleared just over two hours after the accident.

NOTICE:

Elba High School orientation for the new school year will be Monday, Aug. 5th.

Orientation for Grades 7-9 will be at 5:30 p.m. and orientation for Grades 10-12 will be at 6:30 p.m.

Two vehicles collided with one overturning Monday afternoon, July 29, at the Hwy. 84 and Hwy. 141 intersection in the Curtis Community of Coffee County. A total of five people were transported to area hospitals for treatment. Two patients were airlifted from the scene and appeared to be in critical condition. Three others were transported by ambulance to receive treatment for injuries. As the overall number of accidents at this intersection continues to rise, motorists are urged to use extreme caution when traveling through the area.

One of two Enterprise Rescue medical helicopters is shown landing Monday afternoon, July 29, at Mile Marker 159 on U.S. Hwy 84 East in preparation of transporting an injured person from a motor vehicle wreck. Enterprise Rescue had both helicopters and ambulances on scene for the wreck, which included five injured persons. Two were airlifted from the scene with what appeared to be critical injuries.

Elba student trained for future in economic and community development

Kalleigh Russell, a rising senior at Elba High School, was one of 25 high school seniors to attend the fifth Huntingdon College Economic and Community Development Scholars Program.

The two-day, one-night immersive experience took place on the historic Huntingdon College campus in Montgomery, Ala. The program, sponsored by the Huntingdon College Presidential Scholars Program and the Chamber of Commerce Association of Alabama, was designed to introduce young Alabama citizens to the importance of economic and community development in cities and the state.

Participants were selected by their local Chamber of Commerce and the Huntingdon College Presidential Scholars Program. Kalleigh was nominated to participate in the program by the Elba Chamber of Commerce. She represented the very best and brightest from outstanding Chambers across the state of Alabama.

During the program, the students had the opportunity to meet and learn from Dr. Anthony Leigh, President of Huntingdon College, Mr. Jim Searcy, Executive Director of the Economic Development Association of Alabama, Mrs. Paige Hutto, President and CEO of the Chamber of Commerce Association of Alabama, Mr. Nicholas Hadley, Business Development Specialist for the Alabama Department of Commerce, Ms. Madison Haddock,

Kalleigh Russell

Economic Development Specialist Selma/Dallas County Economic Development Authority, Mr. Jess Skaggs, Chief of Staff for the Lieutenant Governor's Office for the State of Alabama, and Mrs. Bria Rochelle-Stephens, Director for the Huntingdon College Presidential Scholars Program.

For a hands-on experience in economic development, the students were divided into small groups and given a city in Alabama to represent as they vied for a corporation, led by President Anthony Leigh, to call their community "home". After completing several tasks in the project that directly referenced the presentations of the guest speakers, the teams gave their final pitch to fellow students and guests. The winning team was highlighted in a groundbreaking and ribbon cutting ceremony at the program graduation.

City of Elba officials closed the Pea River Bridge on Davis Street in downtown Elba to traffic Sunday, July 28, due to "a hole tunneling in the on ramp to the bridge."

The hole and cracks [see photo above] were discovered in the asphalt of the roadway leading up to the bridge. Upon further inspection below the road and bridge, officials discovered a lack of dirt underneath the road in that spot to support the area [as shown in the photo to the right].

For safety reasons, the road at the bridge was closed to traffic immediately. Earlier this week, city clerk Sally Bane said the city had made contact with someone qualified to inspect this particular type problem. She said that person was scheduled to be in Elba on Wednesday, July 31, to inspect the problem and offer any ideas/solutions for repairing the issue.

Bane said at this time it is unclear how long the roadway will be closed at the bridge.

Elba BOE approves high school hires in special meeting

The Elba Board of Education met Tuesday evening, July 23, in a special called meeting, and board members were presented several personnel matters to consider.

First up was a resignation from Elba High School science teacher Alyssa Spicer. Upon recommendation of acting superintendent Ted Watson, the board voted to accept Spicer's resignation.

Four high school hires were approved in preparation for the start of the new school year.

Melissa Carpenter was hired to serve as a special education teacher.

Special Ed coordinator Dr. Tyler Booker said Carpenter had been at Elba previously, and she is coming back now from Barbour County. He said she has 17 years experience teaching.

Booker said he had heard great things regarding Carpenter.

The board approved the hire of Robyn Freeman as an English teacher for the high school.

Enterprise woman gets 20 years in prison in rape case of 13-year-old

An Enterprise woman received a 20-year prison sentence Monday, July 29, after pleading guilty to a charge of rape - second degree.

"On July 29th defendant Amanda Fulford, age 41, appeared before the Honorable Sonny Reagan in the Enterprise Division of Coffee County for a sentencing hearing following her previous guilty plea to the charge of Rape 2nd Degree," Twelfth Judicial Circuit District Attorney James Tarbox said. "At the hearing, Fulford testified on her own behalf and asked the court for a light sentence. Fulford blamed drug and alcohol use, along with family circumstances for her actions."

In addition, Tarbox said Fulford said the then 13-year-old victim had been discussing sex with her, so she just had sex with him.

Fulford was originally arrested in August 2022 for rape and sexual abuse, both in the second degree. Her alleged victim at the time was 13-years-old and related to Fulford by marriage.

In May of this year, Fulford pled guilty to the rape charge in exchange for the Daniel Jermaine Shakespeare as hired as a high school science teacher.

Watson said he is familiar with Shakespeare in that he is an Andalusia graduate, and his father is the current superintendent for Andalusia City Schools.

"He's been successful in the past as an administrator and teacher," Watson said. "He wants to come to us as a science teacher and is willing to do some coaching too."

The final hire made by the board at the special meeting was that of Chelsey Scott as a physical education teacher at the high school. Her employment is pending successful completion of some course work to get all her teaching paperwork in place, but Watson said she is on track to get that done.

One final matter the board considered during the meeting was to surplus some inventory. The acting superintendent said the school system had six old buses that had been condemned by the state.

He said this included two 2006 bus, one 1996 bus, one 2000 bus, one 2004 bus, and one 2009 bus. Also, he said there were two trucks - a white one and a blue one - that needed to be deemed surplus too.

Upon Watson's request the board voted to deem the six buses and two trucks as surplus inventory and allow for them to be advertised on GovDeals.com for sale.

Prior to adjourning, Watson said he was looking forward to the start of the new school year.

Secretary of State warns Alabama citizens about misleading PSA

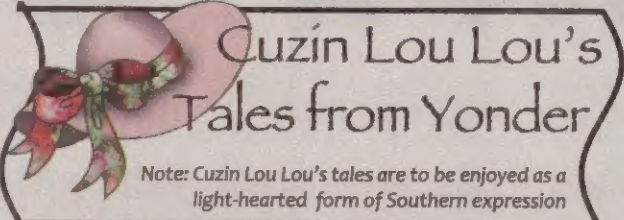

Secretary of State Wes Allen is warning Alabama citizens about a misleading public service announcement currently airing in Alabama.

The PSA, distributed by Vote411, an operation of the League of Women Voters, instructs Alabamians to register to vote using the Vote411 website. The website captures the website visitor's personal data including their IP address and contact information and then, once the information has been captured, the individual is directed to the Alabama Secretary of State's website.

"I'm exposing this data-mining collection effort masquerading as Vote411. It's a sham. This is simply a shady way to collect the IP addresses and personal data of Alabama citizens. In the website's fine print, the League of Women Voters disclose that 'The League may, from time to time, share the name and mailing address of its non-member financial supporters with other non-profit organizations,'" said Secretary Allen. "But they hide that in a small link they hope no one will read."

Less than five minutes later, the two were back on the road. Then, about another 10 miles down the road, Lou Lou's suggestion to put the panels back in place became a great idea when the rain started pouring!

"Oh, well," she thought. "At least I got to ride how I wanted for a few minutes."

The following day, Lou Lou and Sister ventured out for a ride from Panama City over to Panama City Beach. Again, Lou Lou looked at the radar and decided they were in the clear for panels off! This time, things went much better...well...sort of better.

The two made their trip over to PCB, enjoying the Jeep ride. They intended to go to Pier Park to get in a little shopping, but the closer they got to Pier Park, the heavier the traffic seemed to get. Eventually, Lou Lou said she was over the traffic, and asked Sister if she just wanted to turn back, go find a good steak for supper, and then return to their quiet spot on the bay.

Sister replied with a resounding, "YES!"

After a nice meal, the two found some dessert and coffee nearby, and they headed back to the hotel. This is where the freedom on the wind blowing in their hair came to a complete end for the weekend!

Lou Lou turned a corner, and said to Sister, "Look!"

"What?" Sister asked.

"Up ahead. Do you see that!" Lou Lou replied.

"Ummm...you might better stop so we can put the top back on quickly," was Sister's suggestion.

Just a little way up the road, the rain was pouring so heavily, it looked like a wall!

Into a parking lot Lou Lou navigated, and she and Sister jumped out to grab the panels! This time, they had the task completed in less than 2 minutes!

"If nothing else, we have gotten pretty good and getting the panels back on," Sister proclaimed.

Oh well...it was fun while it lasted! Although, Lou Lou has decided that anytime someone wants or needs it to rain, they should just ask her to remove the freedom panels from the Jeep! That seems to be all it takes to conjure up some rain these days!!

At least Lou Lou and Sister got a good laugh from it all...and, they avoided getting soaked by rain!!

Until next time...God Bless and Keep Smiling!

Windy Thoughts

City of Elba officials had to close the Pea River Bridge leading in and out of downtown Elba [depending on which way you are traveling] on Davis Street this past weekend. As of this writing, officials are unsure how long the bridge will be closed. A hole developed in the road's asphalt at the bridge, and a look underneath revealed an undermining of road as the dirt underneath the spot is gone. This is probably something that has gradually happened over the years and has now created a not-so-safe spot. Closing the bridge until the city can get a qualified person in to inspect and come up with a plan to fix the issue was definitely for the best. While it might be aggravating to travel a few extra miles to get in and out of town an alternate way, it is a whole lot better than chancing a much larger issue happening...like a complete cave-in of the spot that is undermined. It is our understanding that someone was scheduled to come to town on Wednesday of this week to look at the problem and offer suggestions...in the meantime, let's just hope the "fix" is something that can be done relatively easy. Better yet...let's hope there is a fix to the problem!

The road and bridge became the city's property when the state opened the new U.S. Highway 84 four-lane road. With the highway no longer running through downtown Elba, the state turned Davis Street, which includes the Pea River Bridge, over to the city for upkeep and maintenance. It is our understanding they deemed the bridge in good shape when they transferred its upkeep to the city. We certainly hope they did not knowingly turn it over to the city with knowledge of the undermining happening underneath the roadway leading up to the bridge!

Elba lost a "good one" over the weekend when Kenneth Grantham left us. Kenneth had fought long and hard against cancer for nearly three years. At times the battle was tough on him, but you wouldn't know it from his demeanor. He was always just Kenneth...yielding that boisterous, lovable personality that so many admired. A few things can most definitely be said about the legacy Kenneth leaves behind – he loved his family, his friends, the City of Elba, and the Elba Country Club. We will certainly miss him and the friendship our family enjoyed with Kenneth for as long as we can remember. We are honored to have known him, and we extend our condolences to his children, Reese and Neil; his granddaughter, Parrish; and the entire Grantham family.

We had the pleasure of taking photos of the Elba football team and cheerleaders late last week. These young men and women were as polite as could be during the photo session, and we commend their coaches for a job well done in leading these young people. We look forward to once again cheering for them on Friday nights! These guys and gals work hard to be the best they can be at their sports (the band members too), and we encourage you to also make plans to attend their games to cheer them on this season. They deserve support from their community...and, this goes for any school in the area not just Elba.

The new school year is upon us...support local education. Do what you can to help make this a successful year.

Tarbox represented the state in the proceedings and argued to Judge Reagan that due to the 25-year age difference between the Fulford and her victim, that the voluntary sentencing guidelines should not apply. He further argued the defendant was due to be sentenced to an active prison sentence for her actions.

Judge Reagan sentenced Fulford to 20 years in prison in the Alabama Department of Corrections. Based upon her history, this was the maximum sentence available to be imposed in this case.

"I am grateful to the court for imposing the harshest sentence allowed by law in this case," Tarbox said.

Family Plots: What are my options?

Spouses often wish to be buried together. Other times, whole families may wish to be buried together, including children or even grandchildren. If this is the case, it is important to take that into consideration when planning a burial.

A Family Plot. A family plot is just that. It is a space large enough for multiple family members to be buried. A family plot must all be purchased at one time to reserve the space.

An Um Plot. An um plot is a smaller space for the burial of a cremation urn. Depending on the size of the plot, it is possible for multiple family members to be buried there.

A Mausoleum. A mausoleum is an above ground building designed to hold caskets. With a private mausoleum, you can build it as large as you wish to accommodate as many family members as you want. Another option is a community mausoleum, which can house many caskets. A family could choose to purchase multiple crypts inside a community mausoleum.

A Columbarium. A columbarium is a building with niches to hold cremation urns. Families can purchase several niches together. As with a family plot, these will likely all need to be purchased at the same time.

Home Burial. In some areas it may be possible to be buried on your own land or in private family cemetery. If this is the case, you will want to check with your local government office to find out if there are any restrictions or permits required.

There are multiple options available for families wanting to be buried together. Make sure you talk to your family members before deciding what you want to do, however, as it can be difficult to resell grave plots once they have been purchased.

CHURCH NEWS

What does the Bible say about... Darkness and Light?

Article written by Douglas Williams

"And this is the condemnation, that the light has come into the world, and men loved darkness rather than light, because their deeds were evil (John 3:19).

But God has "called you out of darkness into His marvelous light" (1 Peter 2:9).

"God is light and in Him is no darkness at all" (1 John 1:5).

Jesus said, "I am the light of the world. He who follows Me shall not walk in darkness, but have the light of life" (John 8:12).

Darkness is the opposite of light, and the Bible tells us that darkness represents that which is sinful and wicked and light is that which is right and holy in God's eye.

The Bible speaks of the rulers of darkness (Ephesians 6:12), and that Christians are to "have no fellowship with the unfruitful works of darkness, but rather expose them" (Ephesians 5:11). In one of the rhetorical questions of 2 Corinthians 6:14, we are told that light has no communion with darkness.

"But if we walk in the light as He is in the light, we have fellowship with one another, and the blood of Jesus Christ His Son cleanses us from all sin" (1 John 1:7).

Jesus told Paul that He has chosen him "to open their eyes, in order to turn them from darkness to light, and from the power of Satan to God, that they may receive forgiveness of sins and an inheritance among those who are sanctified by faith in Me" (Acts 26:18).

The Bible contrasts hell as a place of darkness, and heaven as a place of light. Jesus said hell is a place of "outer darkness" (Matthew 8:12), and Jude 13 says, "the blackness of darkness forever." Revelation 22:5 says, "In heaven the Lord God gives them light."

Jesus said, "You are the light of the world. Let your light so shine before men that they may see your good works and glorify your Father in heaven" (Matthew 5:14-16).

Nighttime Adventures

When I was in college, my younger sister decided it was time for me to learn to drive a car with a manual transmission (a stick shift - if you remember those). She made this decision at 2:00 a.m. I was home on Spring Break, so there was no time like the present.

We crept so the sound of the engine starting would not awaken our mother. We jumped in the car at the proper moment, then spent the next hour driving the back roads nearby. We laughed at my mistakes and had fun together, and I learned how to drive a stick shift that night. Our sneakiness aside, nighttime provided an ideal opportunity to learn before putting my new skill into practice in the heavier traffic of daylight hours.

Something similar seems to have happened with Nicodemus. Perhaps he came to Jesus at night so fellow council members wouldn't see them together. Whether or not that was the motive, it was an ideal time to learn with no press of crowds to distract. Whatever he learned in private, he could mull over later without being asked to take an immediate agree or disagree position.

Disciples who had accompanied Jesus openly for three years went into hiding after His death (John 20:19). But, two other men, members of the council (Mark 15:43) did the opposite: Nicodemus was one of those two (John 19: 38-42). People absorb information in different ways. We must give them a chance to do so. - L.M.W.

Today is a good day! Be grateful.

The Pressbox

By Ricky Mularz, Sports Editor

Our youngest grandson Cannon spent two nights with us last week and while it was fun to have our little man at the house for a couple of days, I'm not sure we could have made it without the YouTube channel on the TV. While Bluey is still his favorite cartoon, we discovered fire trucks one afternoon and then found an air show that featured helicopters. When you are too old to get on the floor and wrestle, turn on the TV!

For what it is worth....

 The preseason high school football spotlight this week is shining on the New Brockton Gamecocks and Kinston Bulldogs, two teams that work hard every week at practice, play hard every Friday night during the season and make their fans proud to wear the school colors.

New Brockton has struggled to an 8-30 record the last four seasons as the Gamecocks have grown from a 2A team into a 4A team in just five years, but despite having no state championship trophies in the trophy case and not winning a region crown since back in 1999, the Gamecocks and their fans never make excuses and instead support the program as success is gauged not in wins, but in progress.

Kinston has managed to post only nine winning seasons in fifty-two years on the football field and has no region or state championship trophies to show off in the locker room, but it never makes excuses about a lack of numbers or the fact it plays in one of the state's toughest regions in the 1A ranks. The Bulldogs are a team that plays with pride and every coach of the teams they play will tell you they know they will have a tough and physical game when they take the field. It isn't about the number of wins, but class, pride and hard work, and Kinston checks every box.

 The AHSAA has always tried to figure out a way to make the 7A playoffs more interesting to fans across the state and may have at least given the fans something to think about this season with the change in playoff formats. Ever since the state went to seven classifications back in 2014 the 'South' winner from either region 1 or region 2 would meet the 'North' winner from either region 3 or region 4 in the state finals, and it wasn't hard to predict what teams would come out of their brackets since the south included Mobile teams and teams from Dothan to Phenix City and on to Montgomery, while the north teams were either from the Birmingham or Huntsville areas. That has now ended! This season the 16 playoff teams will be seeded in four pods with a team from each of the four regions represented in each pod. In the first round, regions two and four will meet in four match-ups, as will teams from regions one and three, while the remaining games could include teams from any corner of the state. While the new format could wind up with two teams from the same region meeting for a state title, at least the playoffs should be better balanced and create more interest.

 It was a very good week to be a quarterback in the NFL as former Alabama quarterback and current Miami Dolphin signal-caller Tua Tagovailoa and Green Bay quarterback Jordan Love both cashed in big. Tagovailoa signed a four-year, $212.4 million extension with the Dolphins that included $167 million in guaranteed money and has the largest annual salary based upon average value at $53.1 million. During the 2023 season, Tagovailoa started every game and passed for 4,624 yards and 29 touchdowns, and despite being plagued with injuries early in his career, was undoubtedly the man the Dolphins wanted taking snaps. Love inked a four-year deal worth $220 million that matches the per year average of $55 million for the highest in league history, and also includes a $75 million signing bonus and $155 million in guaranteed money. Love threw for 4,159 yards and 32 touchdowns last season and led the Packers to the playoffs. I guess fans in both cities shouldn't expect a reduction in ticket prices anytime soon.

 In closing.... Thompson High quarterback Trent Seaborn may only be a sophomore, but last week he had to make a choice many parents would have hated to ponder when he turned down a million-dollar NIL offer from a trading card company to stay with the Warriors. Since Alabama has yet to approve NIL for high school athletes, Seaborn would have been forced to transfer to another state to accept the offer, and he declined by saying there was no way he would leave his coaches and teammates. Florida and Georgia both allow high school athletes to sign NIL pacts, which would have meant a move to a neighboring state. However, the sophomore phenom made his choice and will stay in state, at least for now.

Coffee County Schools to offer free breakfast and lunch for students 2024-2025 school year

Coffee County Schools will begin the school year with a new policy for free and reduced-price meals for children served in schools under the National School Lunch Program and/or School Breakfast Program.

For the school year 2024-2025, Coffee County Schools [Kinston, New Brockton, and Zion Chapel] will participate in the Community Eligibility Provision [CEP]. This USDA provision allows children to participate in the school meal program without having to pay a fee or submit a meal application.

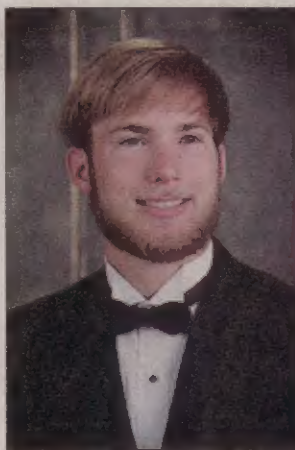

Superintendent Kelly Cobb said this is great news for the school system.

CEP is a key provision of the Healthy, Hunger Free Kids Act of 2010, which allows schools and school districts in low-income areas to eliminate school meal applications and serve breakfast and lunch at no charge to all enrolled students. CEP gives food service professionals more time to focus on preparing meals that their students will enjoy and gives students more time to eat those meals by cutting down on time spent in the lunch line.

More importantly, by offering all students a nutritious breakfast and lunch at no cost, CEP helps ensure more students come to class well-nourished and ready to learn.

Coffee County Schools offer healthy meals every school day. Breakfast and lunch meals will follow the United States Department of Agriculture guidelines for healthy school meals.

Greg and Carol Lolley take a break at Mayim Farm, established in 2011 near Elba. Medicinal plant farm business inspires local couple to educate, advocate

by Elisha Oyola, Auburn University Living Democracy student

The "miracle tree" put Greg and Carol Lolley on the path to becoming medicinal plant farmers. Today, the couple owns Mayim Farm, the headquarters they use to grow, promote and educate others about the powers of medicinal plants.

It started with moringa oleifera, also known as the "tree of life," a plant native to Southeast Asia and India. According to the Lolleys, moringa leaves in many forms can be used to nourish skin and hair, treat swelling, protect the liver and fight foodborne illnesses.

"About 20 years ago, we started being cognizant of what we ate, what we drank, and what we put on our bodies," Greg Lolley said.

He grew up in Enterprise and spent every summer as a child with his grandfather while learning what it took to grow crops. He also developed a passion for sustainable farm practices.

Carol Lolley, originally from Georgia, moved to Enterprise when she was in the sixth grade where she later met Greg. He was working as an avionics technician when he decided to pursue his passion for farming full time. "This was a total departure from anything I had done in my regular work career," he said.

They moved from Enterprise to land outside of Elba in 2011 where they established Mayim Farm. At first, they grew vegetables that they sold at farmers' markets to make a living.

That is until a Jayme Oates, director of Farmscape Solutions, a nonprofit designed to help farmers be successful, connected them with Auburn University.

Auburn University was then conducting trials on medicinal plants to find one that could be grown in Alabama. This plant ended up being turmeric, another medicinal plant from Southeast Asia.

After this connection, the Lolleys changed their primary crops from vegetables to medicinal plants like turmeric and moringa. As they sold their products at farmers markets, the couple also aimed to educate customers on the medicinal use of plants.

Today, the Lolleys said moringa is the primary plant they grow because it contains all 23 amino acids, which Greg Lolley said makes the plant very versatile.

As their farm continues to evolve, he said their primary profits come from selling their products, from powders to teas, online at Mayim Farm. Greg Lolley said the couple constantly tests new formulas and combinations to create beneficial teas and extracts.

He said the market for medicinal plants is growing so it can be a good decision for farmers "given the correct circumstances." He explained that a critical step is determining if there is a market for the product. He added that his biggest challenge is pest control "if you do it like we do with absolutely no pesticides or chemical sprays."

With their roots now firmly planted, the couple is finding time to expand their educational outreach. Currently, they share their knowledge through Operation Grow, a training program for military veterans focused on the health and employment benefits in agriculture. Operation Grow is offered in partnership with the Alabama Department of Agriculture and Industries and the Alabama Department of Veterans Affairs.

The Lolleys, committed to sustainable farming practices, also serve on the Auburn Commercial Horticulture Advisory Panel and work with Alabama Water Watch as certified volunteer testers.

Their mission to educate and advocate continues to expand. Recently, the couple traveled to Washington, D.C., to support GusNIP, a U.S. Department of Agriculture hunger and food security program.

Although they have big picture outreach goals focused on issues such as food waste and hunger, they continue to work on the local level to educate others on the benefits of medicinal plants.

Despite their efforts, Greg Lolley said many are still skeptical when it comes to products such as turmeric. He said this may be because of stigmas against household remedies.

He explained some people once associated household remedies with being poor, which made people want to have pharmaceuticals. "If you had a tea that your grandma picked and dried and made a tea, there was a stigma around it," he said.

Carol Lolley said she believes part of the stigma comes from opposition to change. She added that not all herbs are for everyone but "don't write all of these things off if you don't want to try them or learn about them."

Customer by customer, the Lolleys have developed loyal clientele and friends who support their work as both farmers and advocates.

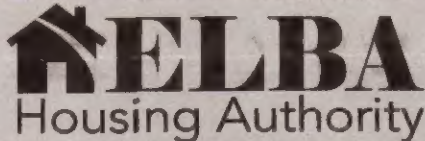

"They contribute a lot of wisdom for sure," said Jake Pendleton, a friend of the Lolleys. Pendleton said he often brings his children to the farm because the Lolleys "are really able to teach" about farming techniques and medicinal plants.

Those interested in visiting the farm or keeping up with the homesteading and herb events the Lolleys host each year can find more information on the farm's Facebook page at <https://www.facebook.com/mayimfarm/>.
